Washington—Naturally reluctant to quoted individuals as to the future of business, the majority of government officials closed their desks for the year 1920 with a sigh of relief and with an expressed feeling that 1921 will see the beginning of a new era in American prosperity.

Instead of apprehensions such as have been experienced for two years that every moment might disturb prosperous conditions, the sentiment about the immediate future is that America now will build on such a sound and substantial basis as to give assurance of a period of years.

Officials do not exude optimism and paint rosy pictures but at the same time they do inspire confidence. And their conversation about the outlook for 1921 is tinged with this central note—where there is abundance there can be neither panic nor poverty.

America is well supplied with commodities and goods and is experiencing what the rest of the world is experiencing—namely, the recession in prices as the prices of the war areas return to the places in the manufacturing and production of articles of commerce.

Learn For Future
Looking back over 1920 lessons may be gleaned about the future. The striking fact of the past year was the strike of consumers. The public stubbornly refused to buy at the prices which were being asked. And when the people generally stopped buying, the manufacturers found that the retailers cancelled orders for new goods.

"This is a democratic country," said a member of the cabinet who of course was referring to the use of the word democracy with a small "d," and things happen in this country just about as the mass of people want them to happen. The people stopped buying because they thought prices were too high and now that the bottom has been reached, people are starting to buy again. This will mean new orders for goods, and new impetus to the manufacturing world.

Should prices go to pre-war levels? Government officials regard this as the most delicate point of all because conditions in very industry are different. They choose rather to say that prices should go to "reasonable" levels and they believe the public will start buying without insisting on an absolute return at once to pre-war levels. In so many cases better goods are being produced than before the war, and again there is no such abundance in some commodities as there used to be. Changed conditions will affect price recessions but, generally speaking, the public will generally decide when it thinks buying should be resumed.

Another thought which cabinet officials suggest is that every period of irritation has its compensations. Throughout the war as the cost of living soared, an immense number of men and women of the salaried class felt the pinch and endured real want simply because the dollar wouldn't buy much. The purchasing power of the salaried class diminished, and they weren't able to buy new clothes and other necessities. Now, however, as prices return to reasonable levels, the salaried class will find the dollar going back to something like a reasonable purchasing power. Buying will come more heavily from the salaried class than from any other in the immediate future. The same reasoning holds true, however, with respect to all classes of people who have postponed buying until prices came down.

Of course, the retailers' prices carry the answer to the whole downward movement of prices just as do landlords' rents. In both instances certain fixed charges from previous retailers and landlords from reducing prices or rents at once. The costs of fuel and labor are important factors. Nevertheless to induce buying and to get a larger volume of business, retailers are expected now that Christmas is over to put on clearance sales everywhere and get rid of much of the stock on their shelves to make way for new goods which will be purchased at a lower cost than before. Just as soon as spring comes and building materials drop, which is the earnest hope of the real estate men everywhere, the erection of more dwellings will affect the price of rents to all classes of people.

Many concerns are forcing the price of labor down by shutting down their plants and stores and "taking inventory." This rather painful process of readjustment will in some cases be justified and in others unjustified. No generalizations are being indulged in by government officials except one—when the price of everything that is to be bought comes down, there will be no excuse for the price of labor staying up.

TAKES OATH OF

Extension of State's Pro-

By United Press Leased Wire
Madison, Wis.—The necessity of extending the protecting arm of the state to affairs springing from the increased social disintegration in human affairs, was urged today by Chief Justice C. Siebecker, in his address following his administration of the oath of office to John J. Blaine, inaugurated governor of Wisconsin in the state house at noon today.

"The readjustments required to meet these social changes is pressing most intimately on every citizen," he continued. "Social progress cannot be stayed but laws and government must be modified to meet the needs of life. Such a task challenges our best thought and our best service. It is a task which means for discharging the affairs of state to protect the people against fraud, cupidity and unjust imposition. The state must defend us from destroying one another through immoral aggression and discriminatory burdens in regulating the general welfare."

Chief Justice Siebecker's address was the first to be given by the oath administrator at a Wisconsin inauguration. Besides Gov. Blaine he also swore in four other new state officers: Governor, Elmer S. Hall, Green Bay, secretary of state; John Johnson, Madison, state treasurer; William J. Morgan, Milwaukee, attorney general.

Comings, Hall and Morgan came to the state house as officials for the first time. Blaine takes the executive chair after being attorney general for the past two years. Johnson started today on his seventh consecutive term as state treasurer.

Today's program started at 10 o'clock when a platoon of the governor's guards took their places on the first floor of the state house as a guard of honor. From then on music by the University band entertained the growing throng of visitors until 11:40 o'clock when the procession of the inaugurated officers formed in the Oriental room of the state house.

Following Justice Siebecker's address and the oaths of office, the huge flag of the Battleship Wisconsin was unfurled in the center of the state house dome while the crowd sang the national hymn and "On Wisconsin." No business was transacted at the state house today, every office being thrown open to visitors. This afternoon the new officials held informal receptions while several bands played in the rotunda. Gov. Blaine's reception will be held this evening, followed by an elaborate inaugural ball with a grand march led by the governor starting at 10:30 p. m.

Among the many visitors today was United States Senator Robert M. La Follette and scores of his followers. The senator came home from Washington for the weekend and to lead the victorious candidate in last November's election. Today's inauguration was the first Sen. La Follette has attended in Madison in ten years.

POLICEMAN SHOT TRYING TO PROTECT YOUNG GIRL

Chicago—Patrolman John Mullen, war veteran, died from a bullet wound today, received when he went to the rescue of a woman threatened by an unidentified man.

Mullen died despite an effort to save his life by five policemen who gave two quarts of blood to prevent death. The shooting occurred early today in a cabaret. A girl in a party of six laughed at her escort.

"I'll show you to laugh at me," he said and drew a revolver. Mullen was called by the proprietor and was shot as he started for the gunman. The latter escaped. The three girls and two men are held.

Wilson Declares Corporation
Will Not Be of Help to Farmers.

By L. C. Martin

Washington—The senate passed today, over the president's veto, the bill reviving the war finance corporation. In vetoing the measure, President Wilson wrote that the revival of the corporation would not, in his opinion, benefit agriculture or general interests, nor increase exports to Europe which he said was taking all the goods it could afford to buy. The measure might also increase taxes in this country, the president charged, because it would involve additional borrowings by the treasury or by the finance corporation, owned by the government.

The vote on the veto was 53 to 3 in favor of overruling the president. The five who voted to sustain Wilson were Elkins, of West Virginia; Keyes, of New Hampshire; Sutherland, of West Virginia; republicans and Gerry, Rhode Island, and Thomas, Colorado, democrats.

President Wilson, in submitting his veto, gave a resume of business conditions in the United States and in relation to foreign affairs in which he said neither the farmers nor business in general would be aided by the revival of the war finance corporation.

Raise False Hopes

The president wrote: "I am in full sympathy with every sound proposal to promote foreign trade along sound business lines. I am convinced that the method proposed is wise, that the benefits, if any, would offset the evils which would result, or that the same or larger advantages cannot be secured without resort to government intervention. On the contrary, I apprehend that the resumption of the corporation's activities at this time would exert no beneficial influence on the situation in which we find ourselves."

Exports of domestic products have not declined since the armistice. On the contrary they have greatly increased. From an aggregate value before the war of less than two and one-half billions of dollars, and of about six billions the last year of hostilities, they rose in the calendar year 1919 to more than $7,000,000,000 and this figure will probably be exceeded for the last calendar year. For the first eleven months of the last calendar year, we exported more than seven and one-half billion dollars worth of domestic merchandise. These have been largely privately financed. The difficulty in the way of still larger exports does not seem to lie so much in the lack of financial ability here as in Europe's lack of means to make payments.

It is remarkable that Europe is unable to make as an effective demand for the large volume of our goods as she is making."

PATCH YOUR HOUSE
WITH HOME-MADE STONE

Possibly you do not know how to put on a stone patch when the necessity arises.

Well, our Washington Information Bureau will give you this up-to-the-minute information.

It has a recipe bulletin on the subject entitled "How to Make and Use Concrete."

Anything with this bulletin in hand can mix up a batch of fluid concrete. It may then be poured into a mold for a doorstep, a decayed foundation, a rotted gate post, a garden wall. It hardens, becomes stone and will endure forever.

This bulletin is one of the series of practical helps to the household that we offer for free distribution.

You should get every one of them as they are advertised and file them away against the time for need.

New York—Constance Talmadge, Playgirl and her mother, Mrs. Margaret Talmadge, were only two blocks apart today.

But gossip lightly flitting about the trial had them miles and miles apart on the question of the lively mode star's marriage.

These rumors said Mrs. Talmadge was nettled at her daughter's choice of the handsome Greek tobacco importer as a husband and just a little incensed that the marriage should have taken place before a Connecticut justice of the peace without having a chance to object to the ceremony.

FRANCE NEEDS PROTECTION

Heroic Nation Now Faces Menace of Another Unprovoked Attack.

BY COLONEL E. M. HOUSE

(Copyright, 1921, by Public Ledger Co.)
New York—The delirium of joy which spread over the earth when the armistice was signed held back for the moment a realization of the nearly vital wounds which civilization received during the great war.

The shock in its full potency is now being felt, and we are all looking about to find out what the matter with the world and what remedies should be applied. The skilled surgeons and men of medicine are but little the better than the quacks in suggesting a cure.

There are many theories as to the cause of the restless and unhappy state of mind we are in and yet there is no concerted effort anywhere to pull together in order to nurse a sick world back to convalescence.

Even at the aggregate wisdom and strength of mankind were united and centered on the one purpose, the difficulties of bringing things back to normal would be greater and the time taken to do it would be long, but with each pulling separate ways and every one full of suspicion and distrust, the task is well-nigh insuperable.

There are some indications that the necessity for this essential cooperation is beginning to dawn upon the consciousness of people everywhere, and there is hope that there may soon be a general desire to build up rather than to pull down. In almost every country there is a feeling of self pity noticeable, caused doubtless by the thought that the great nations of the world have been unprepared.

This frame of mind tends to lead to a desire to stand aside and let others struggle to meet the trying conditions that spring up on every side.

Too Much Criticism
Typical of this condition of mind we find in this country and in England a growing disposition to criticize the French for what is said to be their militaristic spirit and tendency towards what is termed imperialism.

Unhappily for the French, many of the world's existing difficulties pivot around them. If France could see the way to fix a definite and just sum for reparations so as to allow Germany to begin to re-establish herself, many problems might be solved. Among other things it would bring a measure of peace and contentment to Germany which would cause her to act as a shield against Bolshevism.

Her people would return to work and would engage in building up the countless industries that are now lying idle because of the lack of credit and consequently the lack of raw materials. This in itself would make for German contentment, even if the benefits of their labor were largely for the benefit of their late foes. It would, at the least, bring stability and with it the hope that Germany ultimately might find a better place in the social and economic order of the day.

And the movement once in process would solve the danger that Bolshevism now threatens.

Barrier Against Reds
A Germany in the building would be an effective barrier against the Russia of Lenin and Trotsky. It would help the stabilization of credit everywhere, feel the quickening of trade. Although the process might be slow, even the most pessimistic would see the beginning of a better day.

Russia, in turn, would awake to the folly of trying to stir neighboring peoples to revolution and would seek recognition and a resumption of trade relations with the rest of the world and in a way that probably would gain for them that which they sought.

But there is one outstanding difficulty which, unless overcome, must prevent this orderly rehabilitation of Europe. France cannot permit Germany to re-establish herself until some guarantee is given that in the event another unprovoked onslaught is made upon her, she will have adequate protection. What form this protection should take is a matter for the statesmen of every country at interest to determine, but that it must be given, and that it must be substantial enough to satisfy the reasonable demands of France, is certain. Such a guarantee is not more for the benefit of France than it is for Germany or for those of us that would again become participants, willingly or unwillingly, should war between those two peoples come again.

France today has not the same protection that she had prior to 1914. Then Russia, strong and militant, was her close ally. Today she is without any save little Belgium.

Committees.

By United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Confidential data concerning the naval building programs of the principal nations were laid before the senate foreign relations committee today when it took up the Borch disarmament resolution.

Admiral Koonz, chief of naval operations, outlined to the committee the naval plans of Japan, Great Britain and France.

Information concerning the land forces probably will be requested from the war department by the committee. Indications are no action will be taken on the resolution for some time. Committee members said today that Koonz' testimony indicated disarmament would prove a complex problem.

Koonz denied to the committee that President Wilson or the state department had consulted with him concerning a call for a world conference on disarmament under the authority of the naval act of 1916. Koonz said that so far as he was aware, nothing had ever been done and no official of the government was considering action under that provision which suggested that the president invite other nations to send representatives to a disarmament conference in Washington.

Disarmament supporters are backing the Borch resolution calling for an agreement among the United States, Great Britain and Japan for a limitation of naval strength. They declare it will halt the naval building race, avoid the menace of war and save billions to each of the three countries involved.

Borch believes that the senate foreign relations committee will report it favorably and that the senate will pass it.

But the big navy advocates believe that they have arguments to prevent congress from taking such a course. The general board of the navy will advance two major resolutions against such a course, it was learned today.

All the agitation for a revival of the war finance corporation and the demand that the federal reserve board extend more liberal credit has about faded out. President Wilson will veto the war finance resolution and if congress passes the measure over the veto it is a safe bet that the machinery of the war finance corporation will never get going under the present administration. Having no particular political axes to grind for while the present administration wants to go out of power with a record of sound finance and steadiness and many democratic officers insist that the republicans will pursue the same policy when they once get inside the treasury building and examine the state of government finances as a consequence of the war expenditures. MISS ELIZABETH KELLEY

Outagamie county campaign to raise funds for a year's support of 234 Armenian orphans.
Miss Kelley is one of Wisconsin's own people who volunteered for service among the stricken Armenian people. She was formerly of the University of Wisconsin. Her actual contact with some of the most perilous and depressing conditions and her work in the devastated regions will be described in her address.

The speaker is touring the principal cities of Wisconsin and is drawing large audiences everywhere. Her talk is said to be most impressive and holds the rapt attention of her hearers. Her word pictures of starving children, thousands of whom are orphans, are pathetic.
The Outagamie plan is to have various civic, fraternal and religious organizations subscribe to the support of one or more orphans. It costs only $50 to maintain each for one entire year. The actual needs will be presented by Miss Kelley, and the county organization, headed by Mrs. Stephen C. Rosebush, will arrange the campaign for funds. The address Wednesday evening is free to the public. No offering will be taken or pledges solicited.

Wm. Bauerfield spent the holidays with friends in Milwaukee.

HOW TO REDUCE TAXES
Nearly everyone complains about taxes, yet most persons are unwilling to lift a hand to make taxes less. By far the largest amount of taxes paid by the individual and by the majority of corporations today is to the federal government. Federal taxes have come to overshadow all others. They are not confined to income taxes. They cover a thousand forms. Not a purchase is made today or a business transaction of any kind completed that escapes taxation. If the tax is not dirt it is concealed in the price. The individual pays a tax into the federal treasury, directly or indirectly, every time he opens his purse.
Federal taxes are a burden upon the consumer, a burden upon agriculture, a burden upon industry, a burden upon labor, a burden upon all production. Every reduction of the burden is an economic gain, for it means lower costs with no lowering of wages. The federal tax burden is entirely for war, past or future. If it were not for war this burden would be immediately lightened and eventually removed altogether. Moreover, the tax is an economic waste; it brings nothing in return that could not be had without the tax.
It is little wonder then that the attention of the world is focused upon this burden and its mitigation. Great Britain is suffering from it, so is Japan, so are other nations. Not a single nation in the world, our own included, can afford the military extravagance, the armament extremes, toward which a war fought to end wars is rapidly leading them all. Although Great Britain cut its naval program 50 per cent, Lloyd George says that "before disarmament is possible all nations must agree to do so," that "nations cannot take the risk of disarming until they know the other nations are doing the same." Viscount Ishii has said that Japan cannot reduce her military and naval forces unless the United States does likewise. If the United States goes ahead with its naval program, which is far ahead of anything contemplated by Great Britain or Japan, there is little doubt that Great Britain will revise her action and keep pace with American armament.
Our own naval estimates for the current year, based on the 1916 program, are $679,515,731, more than 50 per cent greater than those of Great Britain and more than four times those of Japan. They are larger than our own total disbursements eight years ago. Yet the United States fought and helped win a war that was expected to make great wars an impossibility in the future—a war that cost 10,000,000 lives and $300,000,000,000 in treasure. What did that war accomplish for humanity if the world is to go on arming to the teeth in preparation for another monumental conflict?
Secretary Daniels is now urging an international conference solely on the question of disarmament, provision for which was made in the naval appropriation bill of 1916. President Wilson is said to be considering a call of this kind. Senator Borah has introduced a resolution in congress for a reduction of naval armament. The world is looking to the United States to take the lead in bringing about real disarmament. It must take the lead if anything is to be done.
The American people ought to make themselves heard at Washington. The time is ripe for them to demand an international conference and to insist upon disarmament. The need for putting an end to this senseless and headlong race back to greater militarism than ever is paramount. With a deficit of $2,000,000,000, in prospect at the close of the present fiscal year and war debts of $24,000,000,000 hanging over our heads a continuance of this tribute to war and engines of warfare becomes a ghastly farce. We all want relief from taxation, regardless of our willingness to serve the ends of peace. The way to get it is to stop the armament orgy. If Chambers of Commerce and civic and social organizations all over the country were to flood congress with petitions demanding immediate practical steps to force disarmament they would not only be serving the highest humanitarian ends but the pocketbooks of every individual, and this latter desideratum seems to be the only one that awakens our aggressiveness nowadays. Certainly we can make no complaint about taxes until we do something to lighten the military burden, and the way to do it is to get after the statesmen and politicians and compel action. It is up to our government to start disarmament and it is up to the people to put the government in motion.

RAILROAD GUARANTEES
The fact that some of the railroads have not been making money during the last few months, has led to a good deal of loose talk about the "railroad guarantee." Many people still seem to believe that the government is under obligation to pay the railroads whatever amount is necessary to bring their profits up to 6 per cent. This is not true. The government's only financial obligation to the railroads is left over from the war period. The government is now out of the railroad business entirely, except for such supervision as is exerted automatically by the Interstate Commerce commission.
The railroads have not been guaranteed anything in the way of traffic or earnings or profits. They have been permitted to charge uniform rates calculated, on the basis of a period of normal traffic, to yield amounts equal to costs of operation and upkeep and 6 per cent on the appraised value of the properties. When these rates yield more than 6 per cent the money goes back into the roads for the benefit of the service as a whole to the public and where it is most needed. When traffic falls short the roads have to bear the loss themselves.
They cannot even pass the loss around among themselves. Some of the unprofitable roads would like to have the more prosperous lines divide up their profits for their benefit, insisting that the appraisal has been unfair to them. There may possibly be some revision to straighten out demonstrable injustices where they exist, but it will still be up to every railroad to make good by its own effort. And that is the best thing for the railroads themselves in the long run, just as it is the best thing for the public.
THE MENACE TO THE PARKS
Only one-quarter of 1 per cent of the area of continental United States is given over to national parks and monuments, explains the executive committee of the New England Conference for Protection of National Parks, in a statement demanding the defeat of the Smith and Walsh bills and favoring the Jones bill, all three of which are now pending in congress.
The first two bills would grant certain apparently harmless concessions for the construction by private interests of a dam and storage reservoir within the Yellowstone Park. Investigation has proved that this would actually destroy 8,000 acres of hitherto unexplored wonderland, abounding in beautiful falls and cascades, camping sites and grazing land.
The Jones bill, on the other hand, would remove control of waterpower concessions from the Federal Waterpower commission, which is composed of but three members and subject to a frequent change of personnel, and give it to congress.
With all the domestic and foreign policies which are now troubling officials and public alike, the protection of the parks may seem to be a matter of small importance. The menace lies in just that fact, for genuinely destructive inroads upon their integrity may be made irrevocably while the public is concerned with other things. Since 99 1/2 per cent of the area of the nation is not set aside for parks, but is open to commercial development and utilization, the other quarter per cent might be spared.

A GASTRONOMIC DISCOVERY
Chinese in America long have languished for potatoes of their liking. Never have they been able to acquire a taste for the Irish spud, nor have they taken with glee to the sweet potato of the South. What they wanted was the spud of their ancestors. But it seems they couldn't get the Chinese spud over here, for some reason or other.
When came the discovery of a choice wet spot in Wisconsin where one may grow the spud of Chinese taste. Hundreds of barrels of these Chinese spuds were grown in the lakes of that state this summer and now are gladdening the hearts of Chinatowns the country over.
In the language of a New York chef, the Chinese spud "is a cross between a radish and a toadstool in appearance, and after three hours' boiling is as tough as a bowery bum." The price though, is $2.50 the barrel as compared to $3.50 for regular potatoes.

GALL VERSUS GULL
There is this about gallstones that everybody ought to know: it is a lot easier to get them into the gallbladder than it is to get them out of there. In order to get a collection of them all your own will need to do is contract typhoid fever, neglect your teeth, let your old diseased tonsils stay right in situ where they can do their worst to you, or fad along with some other bacterial infection, and just wait. The chances are one to twelve that you'll have a set of your own by the time you're forty. You can help the formation of the stones along considerably by being feminine and fat, and if you will also be lazy and wear corsets and drink little water and eat too much which, of course, you do if you are fat) that will help some. Gallstones come to those who sit around and wait.
Getting your gallbladder filled with stones is easy enough. Getting the stones out of the sac is rather more difficult.
Various plausible ways of ridding yourself of gallstones will present themselves to you as soon as it is rumored about that you have acquired a set.
The favorite folk remedy scheme played on persons afflicted simultaneously with an excess of gall and gull is this: Fake up a long series of testimonials and let each strongly commend your remedy. Then, for the remedy, take a pint of any harmless oil, such as sweet oil with pink, flavor it with some pleasant medicinal flavor, and instruct the simploten to swallow, oh, about six hours with one of your wonderful powders (consisting of some discolored Rochelle salts or something of that sort). Assure him solemnly he will be rid of his gallstones.
In due time the oil and salts will have thoroughly physicked the dupe. And it is a physiological coincidence that a large amount of oil, especially when followed with something alkaline, undergoes saponification (soap formation) in the intestine. Naturally, therefore, some masses or concretions of a soapy character will be formed, and it is a cinch the dupe will assume these lumps are gallstones. You don't have to tell him they are gallstones, not right out plainly. You just leave it to him to assume they are gallstones. About this stage of the game is the final nail in your testimonial, before he takes it into his head to wait a while before pronouncing himself cured after all the doctors had failed and he had spent (insert any convenient sum) to no avail. You can get all the testimonials you need to keep your game going by drawing on the same source from which you obtained the fake letters you started with.
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
Acute Indigestion
Please tell me if one usually has diarrhea in an attack of acute indigestion. Also in what proportion of cases acute indigestion proves fatal. (Mrs. E. B. D.)
ANSWER—There is no such condition as "acute indigestion." The phrase is merely a convenient one for a doctor to use when he doesn't know what really is the matter with his patient or when he doesn't care to give out the nature of the patient's illness.
Bunion
I am afraid a bunion is forming on my foot. Will you kindly give me a remedy? Please do not sign my name in your column. (Miss P. M. L.)
ANSWER—The only prevention I know is proper shoes. The shoes must have straight or inward flaring inside lines, broad soles and broad toes, heels not over an inch high and not less than two inches wide. Shoes modeled after the Munson last used by the army—and such shoes can be and are frequently worn by young women who are particularly enough about their appearance.
Fine Skin Oil
Several months ago you gave directions for the preparation of sesame oil for use to relieve dryness or harshness of the skin and scalp. I had some prepared by our druggist, and found it wonderfully good. Now I wish to have some more prepared, but have lost the directions and the druggist cannot recall them. Please reprint the directions. I am sure many women will be glad to use the oil. (Mrs. J. H. K.)
ANSWER—Let an ounce of oils of sesame (also known as teel oil and benne oil) be rubbed up with five grains of powdered benzoin and digested for three hours over a water bath. Then let three drops of absolute alcohol be added, the whole filtered. A few drops of this may be applied to scalp or skin once a day to overcome excessive dryness or roughness. The sesame oil does not dry out so quickly as most oils.

Life In Bohemia.
By Frederic J. Haskin.
New York City.—To have the artist's model taken seriously is the purpose of an interesting club which has its headquarters in an old-fashioned house on West Fifty-eighth street here. Pass this house at any hour during the day, and, if you are lucky, you are apt to see its ancient door crack open and the original of your favorite magazine cover girl trip sedately down the steps. For the house is usually full of them. It has about 150 such enchanting damsels on its membership list.
But they are to be taken seriously. Don't forget that.
The other day, a Broadway Don Juan, bewitched at the sight of his favorite bathing girl picture actually walking down Seventh avenue—not in a bathing suit, you understand, but recognizable nevertheless—proceeded to accompany her at a discreet distance as she turned down Fifty-eighth street. When she left the pavement and ran up a pair of steps, he stopped in a truck and stared in deep preoccupation at the door where she had vanished.
Suddenly, the door opened a second time, and a gray-haired sweet-faced matron came out.
"Young man, what do you mean by following one of our girls?" demanded the lady quietly but firmly. "Now suppose you just run along back to Broadway where you belong. The girls in this club are nice, quiet, refined girls, and they don't want to be annoyed, and, furthermore, we are not going to have a lot of idle, gaping men standing out here in front of our house."
Thus said the secretary of the club, as she later explained to the reporter, in the bud a movement on the part of the male population of New York to give the club its enthusiastic endorsement.
"The attitude of the public, especially the masculine public, toward the artist's model," said the secretary sadly, "is much the same as it is toward the chorus girl—entirely frivolous. It is also incurably romantic. People seem to have an idea that an artist's model is a gay young thing, who earns an easy, if not luxurious, living by posing for fascinating artists with long hair, or Oriental fizzes, if they have bald heads. Now, as a matter of fact, posing is hard work, and until recently the average artist's model has been poorly paid and has been given about as much consideration as a table or chair."
Getting Jobs for Models.
Here the telephone on the secretary's desk burst noisily into her confidences, and she grabbed a notebook and pencil.
"Excuse me just a minute," she said, taking up the instrument. "Yes, I think we have just the girl you need—Miss B. You know her? Too thin? I don't believe we have anybody plumper. We consider her one of the plumpest girls we have. About 150 pounds, I should say, but tall and well-proportioned. Yes, I think you might be able to use her face, too. She's a good Spanish type. Well, she lives right up in your neighborhood—suppose I have her come in and see you anyway. If she doesn't suit, perhaps we can get you some one else. Miss M., whom you had before, will be back from Havana Friday."
The secretary then explained that the club runs an employment bureau for its members, who are all registered and classified by types. Posing is somewhat like private nursing; a girl never knows how long her job is going to last or how much money it is going to pay her. Some artists take a long time to complete their work, and others can scarcely afford to emulor to pay a high rate for a model, and other can scarcely afford to employ one at all. But conditions in this respect are better for posers than they have ever been before, thanks to the persistent mercenary efforts of the club. A good model can now demand and collect a dollar an hour for her work, at which rate some of them make as much as $8 a day.
Besides its employment bureau, the Art Workers' club, as it is called, operates a restaurant on the first floor of the house, which serves excellent meals at cost, while 5 o'clock tea is served every afternoon absolutely free. To this artists as well as models are invited, since, as the secretary explained, "the chief object of the club is to bring the two factions together for the promotion of a better understanding."
Thus, on a rainy afternoon, the big clubroom is filled with models draped about the furniture in graceful attitudes, while they chat and drink tea with sociably-inclined artists. The room, with its artistic draperies and comfortable couches and easy chairs, looks more like a drawing room than a clubroom, and the casual stranger would never guess from the frivolous, repartee and engaging manner of its guests that serious business was being transacted. Yet it is at these teas that many New York artists find their various types of models.

The Costumes.
On the third floor of its large, old-fashioned home, the club maintains a costume department, which contains costumes of every period and nationality. These are often rented at a nominal fee with the model. For instance, while the reporter was visiting the club the other day, a wealthy artist, who lives in a suburb of New York, came in and told the secretary he was in search of a Dutch type and a Dutch costume of the kind worn by a certain group of peasants living on an island in the Zuyder Zee. The artist was told to go up to the clubroom and make himself at home while the secretary found him a model. In a remarkably short time, a flaxen haired girl, with broad cheek bones and a robust figure came in the front door in answer to the secretary's telephone summons, and was rushed up to the third floor to be fitted for the said peasant costume. The same afternoon she was out at the artist's suburban studio, ready to take her pose.
Once, every February, the club has a models' review, which is considered one of the most important events in artistic circles. To this review all of the known artists in the city are invited. The clubroom is turned into a small auditorium, with rows of chairs to accommodate a large-sized artist audience, while in the center of the room is an elevated platform for the exhibition of the models. The girls appear in the most beautiful costumes that the costume department is capable of turning out—costumes representing everything from the early Greek and the Italian renaissance periods to the latest frock and chapeau coming from one of the Paris maisons. By reviewing these models, the artist often gets the inspiration of his life, so we are told, while the model gets a well-paid job.
Fashions in Models.
Not all of the models in greatest demand are beautiful, but all of them are distinctive. Types are what the artist wants—not necessarily pretty faces. This year girls of the Spanish type are much in demand, while last year there seemed to be a general preference for French girls. A few of the models, who are kept very busy posing for mural decorations and character poses, are middle-aged and gray-haired, but as a rule the life of the average model is only too short. Youth, with its shimmering skin and firm, supple muscles, is the chief requirement in the posing profession, so when a model enters her thirties she also begins to look for another kind of employment. Sometimes she herself tries to enter the commercial art designing, and others return from whence they came—the theatrical profession or the business office.
Knowing how tragically short is the career of the poser, the Art Workers' club endeavors to persuade its members to study for another profession while doing their regular work. According to the secretary, most of them are now following this advice, which keeps them extremely busy and certainly unable to indulge in all the mad gaiety with which the public credits them. "Of course," she explained casually, "the majority of them marry—either the artists they pose for, or millionaires. It's no trouble for an artist to marry. The mere fact that she is an art model has a tremendous fascination for men."
"Then it seems to us that the art model does not require much help," said we, "so why did you start this club for her? She seems to be the last kind of a female in need of charity."
Then the secretary explained that art models have not always been so popular. There was a time years ago when no one paid much attention to them. When Miss Helen Sargent, now Mrs. Ripley Hitchcock, and founder of the club, was studying at the Art Students' league some years ago, for example, such was the case. One afternoon a young girl posing for her class fainted from fatigue, and according to Mrs. Hitchcock it was ten minutes before anybody went to her assistance. "Oh, it's only a model," they said indifferently. "They are always doing that."
It was then that Mrs. Hitchcock determined that things should change, that an organized club should be started for their benefit, and that the time should come when artists' models would be looked upon as human beings and treated seriously.

THE QUESTION BOX
(Any reader can get the answer to any question by writing The Appleton Post-Crescent Information Bureau, Frederic J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C. This offer applies strictly to information. The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters, and does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Write your question plainly and briefly. Give full name and address and enclose two cents in stamps for return postage. All replies are sent direct to the inquirer.)
Q. Which Speakers of the House served longest? D. D. S.
A. This distinction is divided between J. G. Cannon who served from 1903-1911; and Champ Clark, who served from 1911-1919.
Q. What wood will resist decay most successfully? R. M.
A. The Forest Service says that this cannot be determined, since various species rot differently in tropical and temperate climates. Lignum vitae probably comes nearest to living up to this term than any wood in the world. Generally speaking, the following woods may be classed as very durable: black locust, cypress, greenheart, lignum vitae, teak and the cedars.
Q. Can Indians own property, and can they vote? A. A. M.
A. A great many Indians are very wealthy and own a great deal of both real and personal property. A large number of them are fully enfranchised citizens of the United States. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs says that every effort is made to induce the Indian settlers on the reservations to improve themselves and make use of the opportunity America offers them to become citizens.
Q. When did music first come into use? Z. W. K.
A. It is not known exactly, when music notes came into use. In the first half of the 13th century notes of definite length were introduced. The first real school of composition was in Flanders, Wm. Du Fay being the first of the composers of this school. He was born shortly before 1400, and died in 1474.
Q. Where is the Long Bridge? R. A. G.
A. This name is applied to a bridge over the Potomac River, connecting Washington with the Virginia shore. During the Civil War it was the chief line of communication with the Army of the Potomac, and was strongly fortified.

Principles Of Unionism Prevent Harmony Between Employer And Employee

Unionism Is Based on Principle That Conflict Exists Between Employer and Employee. F. Clausen Says at Forum Meeting

So long as the fundamental principles of unionism are predicated on the theory that conflict exists and must exist between employer and employee, it will be difficult to bring about harmonious working conditions, declared F. H. Clausen in his address before the People's Forum at Lawrence Memorial chapel Sunday evening.

Mr. Clausen, who is connected with the Dering Harvester Co., plant at Horicon, Wis., delivered a splendid address in which he presented the employer's side of the industrial problem. He viewed the workings of unionism from the manufacturer's point of view and compared its war record to that of the manufacturers. He answered numerous questions after his address, a majority of which were asked by labor men.

Wisconsin, notorious as an "open shop" state, stands high among all morale. With union delegates endeavoring to create dissatisfaction such conditions do not attain. The personal touch is destroyed.

Union labor's claim to extraordinary patriotism during the war was subjected to inquiry by the speaker. He spoke of the least of labor leaders of the past, of their claim to wholehearted devotion to the American cause and their efforts to maintain harmony between capital and labor and then he called attention to the fact that 87 per cent of the unemployed during the war were in union shops.

Terrific waste of human energy during the war was charged to the unions because of their insistence that their laws be complied with despite the shortage of men. He illustrated this by telling how the typographical union kept 1,400 printers employed in four of five of the largest cities setting up advertisements which they knew would never appear in print simply because of a rule which required advertising matter appearing in its output of manufactured products and wages paid to employees. He said, "Government reports showed that while the cost of living increased in the last few years from 100 to 200 per cent wages in this state increased from 100 to 250 per cent, in spite of the fact that unions are not strongly entrenched here."

More than 97 per cent of all manufacturing plants in Wisconsin employ less than 250 men and only slightly more than one per cent employ over 1,000 men. More than 95 per cent of the manufacturing establishments are operated on the "open shop" principle.

No Oppression

He said it had been popular to maintain that labor is oppressed. There has come to be a general feeling that labor is not fairly treated by employers. That is due largely to the fact that most of these addresses made on the subject are those by trade unionists or by theorists. The employers have been more or less to blame for the impression because they have done so little to rectify the error but he said every manager and every newspaper to be set in type in that office. In large cities newspapers have their advertisements set in type in one office and then furnish matrices to other newspapers in order to insure uniformity of type in all the publications. Unions insist these advertisements must be reproduced in type in all the offices within thirty days, even if they are never to be used.

He cited a large number of instances to show that the only way in which the present industrial conditions may be improved is by a more general and common cooperation between employer and employee. Payment of the best wages possible, as short hours as is consistent with profitable production, good working conditions and close personal contact.

BROWN COUNTY POLICE SEEK NEGRO ROBBER

Police and sheriff's offices here have been requested to be on watch for a negro alleged to have robbed the offices of Morris and Co., in Green Bay last November. Green Bay authorities have sent descriptions of the man to local authorities. It is said Shelden. He is said to be between 45 and 50 years of age; height 5 feet, 9 or 10 inches; weight 130 pounds, very black hair and mustache; leg cut off above knee; has artificial leg and walks with a decided limp. It is said the last report received regarding the negro after the robbery was that he had been seen in Marinette. From there it is believed he went to Escanaba, Mich. Sheriff Vanden Heuvel of Brown county has had several "hot" clues as to his whereabouts, but the alleged robber got away before he could be arrested.

Struck By Auto

Oscar Hoh suffered minor injuries Friday evening when a skidding automobile driven by Merritt Kaplingst, 1031 Fifth street, on College avenue near Superior street, struck his bicycle and threw him to the road. Kaplingst took the injured man to a physician's office, where it was found that his legs and thigh were bruised, but not seriously. The bicycle was demolished.

employer knows that such a policy is the worst that could be evolved. It has been proven over and over again that only by fair treatment of labor can anything like success be attained by employers. Labor has the right to living wages, to good working conditions and to organize. Of those things there can be no doubt, he said.

Conflict Is Fostered

The trouble lies with the application of those principles he held. The very foundation of the American Federation of Labor is explained in its articles of organization, he said, which declare there "is conflict between employers and labor." It maintains organizations, whose very stock in trade is to foster that belief. Under such conditions cooperation between employer and employee is next to impossible.

While in this state the building trades are organized, the factories are largely open shop institutions. "The Wisconsin Federation of Labor," he said, "is dominated largely by socialists as evidenced by the list of officers in charge and their views are so directly at variance with the very fundamentals of American institutions. Cooperation is entirely out of the question. They do not recognize even the right of employers to be employers, but would entirely eliminate personal property rights.

Destroys Individuality

"Industry involves three elements: material, machinery and men. No two men are alike in any particular. Employed in a group or class they are placed on a dead level. That is the union idea. It takes away the incentive for individual effort. Samuel Gompers maintains that labor is not a commodity but the very method employed by trade unionism contradicts that. Under union methods the employer does not hire a man—an individual. He employs a unit group who may be known as well by number as by name. Loyalty, contentment and ambition cannot thrive under that form of employment. Loyalty is necessary to good workmanship. The employee must have faith in his job. He cannot be loyal if he is not contented. To be contented he must have been treated fairly, paid well and given employment under proper conditions. These facts are recognized by employers who know that such conditions develop

3,000 CROWS KILLED IN COUNTY LAST YEAR

Nearly 3,000 crows were killed in Outagamie county during the year 1920 according to bounties paid which amounted to $423.25. The bounty was 15 cents on each head. Crows had become so numerous and destructive in some parts of the county that an effort was made to exterminate them. The number of sheep killed by dogs during the year was seven valued at $78. The amount of bounty paid on gophers was $3.85.

HIGH SCHOOL NOW HAS 700 STUDENTS

High school opened for regular session Monday morning. Three new students were enrolled, making the present enrollment just 700. Four weeks remain before the end of the first semester, when about 25 students will graduate into the high school from the First Ward school, and several others will enter from outside schools.

Final examinations will be held on January 24, 25, 26.

FIRST WARD SCHOOL GRADS NAME OFFICERS

Everett Johnson was elected president of the alumni of the First ward school at a meeting Wednesday evening at the school. Other officers elected were: Miss Dorothy Murphy, vice president; Miss Catherine Pratt, secretary; Harold Briese, treasurer. The business session was preceded by a banquet.

EARLY MORNING DRIVER WRECKS CHIEF'S CAR

Fire Chief George P. McGillan's automobile was disabled early Saturday morning when a Ford automobile crashed into its side. The chief drove out of the doorway of No. 1 station to respond to an alarm on Ryan street at two o'clock. The Ford driver failed to see the car emerge and struck it near the front. The steering apparatus was put out of commission and the chief was obliged to leave the machine and ride to the fire with one of the other companies. No damage was done to the Ford. The driver's name was not obtained.

BLAINE ROSE TO HIGH ESTATE BY DINT OF HARD WORK

New Governor of Wisconsin Has Been Political Leader for Many Years.

(Special to Post-Crescent.)
Madison, Wis., Jan. 3.—John J. Blaine, who was inaugurated governor of Wisconsin at noon today, was born on a farm in the town of Waterville, Grant county, Mar. 4, 1876, and although a successful lawyer, he is also and always has been a farmer. He was educated in the common schools of Grant county and was graduated from the Marquette high school. Later following in his father's farm, which for some time, incapacitated him from manual labor, he attended the Northern Indiana university at Valparaiso, Ind., graduating from the law department June 3, 1898.

It was probably that accident which gave which changed his career and ultimately placed him in the gubernatorial chair as chief executive of his native state. Gov. Blaine admits frankly that in his youth he had no special ambition. He seemed to take it for granted that he would remain on the farm. Then the accident which for a time was feared would leave him a cripple for life, brought him to a realization that he must look to some other field of endeavor.

In high school he had gained considerable reputation as a debater. He did not consider that he was unusually fond of books, but what he studied he remembered and he always made good grades in school. After carefully weighing the matter, he decided to study law and accordingly entered the Northern Indiana university with that object in view. He found the work in the university harder than he had anticipated but he had learned a lesson from an unrequited love on his father's farm some years before he backed down to work.

He had owned a pet colt when a kid on the farm and finally persuaded his father to let him "break" it himself. The colt had different ideas and there was a real tussle. The lad's father reminded him that he had asked for the job and he must finish it. He was at most ready to quit when he realized that if he did not admit the colt was better and smarter than he, so he persisted, mastered the colt and learned a lesson he has never forgotten. It was that lesson which made it possible for him to master his work in college and receive his diploma with his class.

Returning to Wisconsin he hung out his shingle in Montfort, where he practiced law for one year, then moved to Roscobel, where he has practiced ever since. For the first year or two, with a small practice he had to work hard to make both ends meet. But he took it as a matter of course. He was not at all active in any movement in the community, was a willing worker and soon was looked upon as the friend of everyone in the little city and a real leader.

He was called upon to serve his community as a member of the county board, serving for four years, during which time he was the recognized leader on the board. Then he was elected mayor of Roscobel for four consecutive terms and refused to serve longer. He was nominated and elected to the state senate from Grant county in 1905 and served in the 1909 and 1911 sessions, but refused to accept another term.

It was while a member of the state senate that he first attracted statewide attention. He was a recognized progressive leader when he came to the senate but on the floor of the upper house he not only assumed the leadership, but became a power in the first few days of his first session. It was John J. Blaine who filed the charges with the legislature which resulted in the legislative investigation into the famous Stephenson senatorial campaign which was followed by the federal investigation.

Blaine also was the author and champion of the initiative, referendum and recall bills which were passed by both branches of the legislature during the two terms he was in the senate after hard fights, and which were afterwards voted on by the electors of the state as constitutional amendments and defeated with a dozen other proposed amendments.

Retiring from the senate, Blaine did not lose his interest in the political life in the state. He had seen and learned much during his four years in the senate and returning to his law practice at Roscobel, he continued his fight for the progressive cause, for rule by the people, and in the spring of 1918 he was endorsed for attorney general at a mass meeting of more than 1,000 farmers, largely members of the Miss Elsie Wolfmeyer was a Black Creek visitor Wednesday.

Wisconsin Society of Equity, was nominated in the fall by more than two to one over his opponent and predecessor, being elected two months later by nearly 100,000 plurality.

He was nominated for governor in September in a field of six candidates after a most trying campaign and was elected in November with a plurality of over 100,000, having received a majority of all the votes cast for governor.

Mr. Blaine was united in marriage in 1904 to Miss Anna McSpaden of Roscobel, who has through all his political career been his constant companion, confident and political advisor.

Mrs. Blaine studied politics with her husband and became an enthusiast years before there was any prospect of equal suffrage. Like her illustrious husband she was always a real progressive, an ardent suffragist and a worker for women's suffrage. But withal, she has been a lover of home and has assisted her husband in their own home on many a night to work out his political problems. During the recent campaign she accompanied him on most of his speaking tours about the state and on several occasions took the platform herself and delivered some "corking" political speeches.

SALTS IF BACKACHE AND KIDNEYS HURT

Drink Lots of Water and Stop Eating Meat for a While if Your Bladder Troubles You

When you wake up with backache and dull aches in the loins, it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and sluggish. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sour, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The uric acid clouds, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water swells and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the purest of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia water drink.

Wisconsin Banks Are In Fairly Good Condition

Banking Commissioner Cousins Is Not Entirely Free From Worry, However.

Madison, Wis.—"The banking conditions in Wisconsin as a whole are far more satisfactory than in some other sections of our country," declared Marshall Cousins, Commissioner of Banking, today, when asked as to the condition of the banks at the close of the year.

"It must not be understood we are free from worry. The banks in this state, as well as all other states, have a great and serious problem confronting them," continued the Commissioner. "These problems must be met and considered calmly. Getting nervous and excited will but add to the uncertainty. Sound business principles and common sense, which the Wisconsin bankers and the bankers throughout the country have shown during the past several years will solve these problems and carry business eventually into calm waters."

"The resources of our Wisconsin banks are probably greater than ever before, there is a new condition confronting them. We are going through a period of readjustment. We are working our way back to 'normalcy.' To do this, all business must do its share. When I say all business I refer to the farms, the factories, the markets, and the shops—to the merchants, the farmers, and the manufacturers. No special line of industry can be especially favored and escape shouldering its share of the reduction in values through the readjustment of conditions."

"Those engaged in the business of manufacturing, those engaged in the business of agriculture, and those engaged in the business of trading are beginning to realize it is necessary for them to assume their share of the burden. A few months ago the manufacturer was refusing to part with his finished product, owing to a reduction in prices. More recently the farmer has been withholding their season's product from the market, owing to unsatisfactory prices; but the good common sense of both classes has brought them engaged to a realization that they cannot always block the wheels, and products have begun to move. While at first thought it may appear they are meeting with large losses, eventually, I believe, it will be seen that through the readjustment the losses will be minimized."

"The banks of the country ordinarily at this season of the year have collected the loans made during the season to the agricultural interests. Heretofore, for a generation the farmer has marketed his product before this time, paid off his obligations to the banks and had money on deposit. Banks have come to expect that this would be done, and had so arranged their affairs. This year the expected liquidation did not take place through the farmers withholding their product from the market. It caused greater or less stringency of money in the various localities. The banks were compelled to restrict their loans, and oftentimes, to seek by borrowing money outside to relieve the local situation."

"The federal reserve banks have proven their value in giving assistance. This assistance has been extended to both member and non-member banks."

"While it is believed the period of the greatest stress has passed, it will be necessary for some time for banks to restrict their activities to the minimum."

"While as I have said the bankers have their worries, we have all confidence in the future. Our people are possessed of good hard common sense and this is a resource on which they will fall back at this time and it will soon relieve the pressure."

DEATH CLAIMS THREE NEW LONDON PEOPLE

New London—Oscar Rickaby died at his home Thursday at the age of 86 years. Mr. Rickaby was a pioneer of this county and a veteran of the Civil War. He was a member of Company H, 21st regiment. The flag above the G. A. R. Hall is at his mast in his honor. Survivors are two sons, Henry Rickaby of Dudley, Wis., and David Rickaby of New London; two daughters, Mrs. A. Bernan of Northport and Mrs. G. Blondy of this city. The body was taken to Collins, Wis., Friday, where funeral services an obituary took place.

Oliver Guerin died at his home Tuesday after a lingering illness at the age of 30 years, leaving a wife, two children, mother and several brothers and sisters. The body was taken to Manawa where burial took place Friday.

Mrs. Susan Thornton, formerly of Fond du Lac county passed away at the home of her son, Charles Thornton in this city. Deceased was 63 years of age. She is survived by one daughter and several sons. The body was taken to Royalton Wednesday where funeral services were conducted by the Rev. Mr. Ootenhuis.

Thursday when William Klatt was working in the woods near the August Ross farm, his team of horses broke through thin ice and were under the water until only their heads showed. In his effort to get the horses out, he cut one quite severely about the head. Neighbors helped get the team out.

The barracks erected on the north and south side school grounds were ready for occupancy when school opened Monday, January 3. It had been necessary to have some of the grades in session a part of the day only, but there will be no necessity of such a schedule now. Miss Hamilton of the Stevens Point Normal has been engaged for one of the new departments and Miss Mary Carroll has been engaged to fill the domestic science position, made vacant by the resignation and marriage of Miss Ethel Davis of Appleton.

Guest of Theodore Pennings and family, Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Seivert and family of Kaukauna spent the holidays with Mrs. Seivert's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Van Rixel.

Mr. and Mrs. William Weyenberg and daughter Esther of Kaukauna spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Green.

Mr. and Mrs. Martin Ver Hoeven and family of Appleton were the guests of Mrs. John L. Garvey Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hooyman entertained the following guests at a supper Sunday: Mr. and Mrs. Henry Langenberg and daughter Bernadine, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Hooyman, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Hooyman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hooyman, Mrs. John Hooyman Sr., Jim Weyenberg of Grand Chute and Miss Ella Weyenberg. The evening was spent with cards and music.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Brittacker of Appleton spent Saturday and Sunday with Mrs. Brittacker's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Smith.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Murphy, daughters Bernadine, Margaret, Verna and Florence of Appleton, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Murphy of Chicago, Joseph and Oscar Murphy of Chicago were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kieffer and family, Sunday.

Quaker Minister Is Grateful to Tanlac

Rev. Parker Moon, Carthage, Missouri.

Nearly everybody in Southwest Missouri either knows or has heard of the Rev. Parker Moon, who for a full half century has devoted his life and talents to Sunday school and organization work for the Society of Friends or Quakers. He resides at 628 Howard avenue, Carthage, Mo.

"Uncle Parker" as he is more familiarly known, came from fine old rugged Quaker stock, and there is not a better known or more highly respected citizen in that part of the state. In referring to his remarkable restoration to health by Tanlac, he said:

"About five years ago I suffered a general breakdown. My principal trouble was nervous indigestion. My appetite was very poor and my food seldom agreed with me, and I had to live on a very restricted food. I suffered a great deal from headaches and dizzy spells; I had severe pains across the small of my back and was badly constipated most of the time. In fact, I was so weak and rundown I was not able to attend to my duties."

"This condition made me very nervous and I could not sleep at night. Frequently I would be awake most all night and was in that condition more or less for five years. My physician said he could not do anything for me and suggested a change of climate. I then moved to Texas and went back and forth three times but did not get the relief I had hoped for. Finally, I got so bad off I was not able to get around with any degree of comfort. I was also told I had heart trouble."

"I had read about Tanlac and, as it had been very highly recommended to me, I decided to try it. I got a bottle and had taken only a few doses until I could notice a marked improvement in my condition. I noticed especially that I was not troubled any more with sour stomach after eating, which was a great relief."

"I kept on taking Tanlac until I fully regained my health. My appetite is splendid; I enjoy my meals and I do not find it necessary now to take any laxative medicines of any kind. I can sleep much better and am not nearly so nervous."

"I take great pleasure in recommending Tanlac to any one who needs a good system builder, or who suffers with stomach trouble. I have recommended Tanlac to a great many of my friends and am pleased to reach others by giving this statement for publication."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by John J. Voigt; F. O. Brown, Shiocton; Dr. J. M. Sattler, Bear Creek; H. T. Abend, Dale; R. E. Lowell, Little Chute.

BETTER THAN WHISKEY FOR COLDS AND FLU

New Elixir, Called Aspirinal, Medicated With Latest Scientific Remedies, Used and Endorsed by European and American Army Surgeons to Cut Short a Cold and Prevent Complications.

Every Druggist in U. S. Instructed to Refund Price While You Wait at Counter if Relief Does Not Come Within Two Minutes.

Delightful Taste, Immediate Relief, Quick Warm-Up.

The sensation of the year in the drug trade is Aspirinal, the two-minute cold and cough reliever, authoritatively guaranteed by the laboratories; tested, approved and most enthusiastically endorsed by the highest authorities, and proclaimed by the common people as ten times as quick and effective as whiskey, cough and croup, or any other cold and cough remedy they have ever tried.

All drug stores are now supplied with the wonderful new elixir so all you have to do to get rid of that cold is to stop into the nearest drug store, hand the clerk half a dollar for a bottle of Aspirinal and tell him to serve you two teaspoonfuls with four teaspoonfuls of water in a glass. With your watch in your hand, take the drink at one swallow and call for your money back in two minutes if you cannot feel your cold fading away like a dream within the time limit. Don't be bashful, for all druggists invite you and expect you to try it. Everybody's doing it.

When your cold or cough is relieved, take the remainder of the bottle home to your wife and babies, for Aspirinal is by far the safest and most effective, the easiest to take and the most agreeable cold and cough remedy for infants and children.

A BRAND NEW YEAR

There's a thrill about the New Year that gives us all a determination to accomplish bigger things than ever before.

But it takes the inspiration of every new day to sustain that determination.

Our officers look upon every day as another opportunity to increase this institution's usefulness and to broaden the scope of its service to patrons and friends.

We take this opportunity to wish you all a Happy New Year.

Dear Subscriber:

Did you ever stop to think what occurs when you remove the receiver from the hook? Perhaps not. Well, this is what happens:

A little light appears in front of an operator which attracts her attention. It is your signal to her that you want to use your telephone.

Now, then, how do you respond to her "Number please"? Your response has much to do with the quality of service you get. The operators are human, "even as you and I," and your little light that signals the operator has an individuality all its own with her. If you are a grouch, this is about the way your light looks to the girl—

But if your voice is pleasant and you strive to be all that a lady should expect from a subscriber, your light looks to her much like this—

Make your light shine bright, and your service will be the same.

Wisconsin Telephone Company

EAST SURPRISED BY CALIFORNIA'S FEAT

Victory Over Ohio State Stamps Western Team as One of the Best.

The United Press Leased Wire. New York—As one of the best football teams in the country, the infant 1922 Ohio State team has won a reputation for itself in California. With the rolling around of the new year, there rolled into the ranks of the football great a team which California, by her decisive defeat of Ohio State, takes a place with Princeton, Penn State, Pittsburgh and Notre Dame as the very best teams of the season.

To the east, in its broadest geographical application, the defeat of the Buckeye team was a distinct surprise. The weapon used in the down fall of the western conference champion was a revelation.

Outside of Coach Jack Wiley and his squad, perhaps no one expected California to seal Ohio State's fate when how it should be done.

While told the writer recently that Ohio wasn't going to be too good because that California's offense was built around a tank. Andy Smith knows as much as anyone about the forward pass. He's been fooling us when he says he's going to play against a new team," he said. If Ohio was expecting an air attack, the most credit is due California for the east team had a perfect defense against State's forward pass.

The long passes of the accurate Dick Munier.

True, Ohio State did lose by some breaks. Two fumbles in the first half and a bad punt in the second. But handling is not a first class football. Ohio seemed to have to be tied when it came to stopping the pass but the "long snapper" work at the end of the line was a loss of stock.

There were a few of stock plays, but the western team played the game as it should be played. The most pleasant post-game conversation was that of Coach Wiley and his players, that "the better team won."

Seeing the game in type the east seemed to have the better team did win, but the east is not showing its best in its record in recording a surprise.

It is a sad thing for football's opinion seems to be that the conference champion of the west was a team that was not as good as it was.

Since there are going to be an unusual number of inter-sectional games next fall, the east is hoping that California can be brought to the Atlantic coast next season, not to get the team away from its home territory but to give the east a chance to see what has proved to be one of the very best teams.

INTERLAKES DEFEATED BY MATCH CO. TEAM

The Diamond Match Co. team of Oshkosh, defeated the Interlake basketball quint, 20 to 18 Saturday in one of the fastest games of the season. The winning basket was made in the last minute of the game. Froxy and Wheeler were stars for the local team, while Pugh of Oshkosh, scored 16 of the 20 points made by the team. The Oshkosh men and rooters came up in a special car.

The preliminary game was played by the Abigents against the Appleton Women's Club team, the Abigents showing their might with a 16 to 5 victory.

The Interlake team will play a return game at Oshkosh next Saturday. An attempt will be made to charter a special car for the trip and it is expected that a good support of rooters will accompany the team.

BUSHEY TEAM WINS TWO MORE GAMES ON TRIP

Bushey Business college basketball team added two more scalps to its list on Wednesday and Thursday nights when it defeated Stambaugh and Iron River, Mich. Stambaugh lost 31 to 22 and Iron River finished on the short end of a 31 to 21 score. Immense crowds saw both games.

One of the features of the trip was a fifteen mile sleigh ride from Cranford to Laot to catch a train which carried the players to Stambaugh. Fred Bushey, who is accompanying the team, said two feet of snow is covering the entire northern country.

Bill Johnston and Bill Tilden, premier American tennis sharks, will soon return to America with the Davis cup, emblematic of tennis superiority, in their possession. They won this trophy by defeating Patterson and Brookes, two Australians, at Auckland, New Zealand. They had little trouble in defeating the Australian champs.

LAWRENCE STARTS CAGE SEASON ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Lawrence college basketball team opens its collegiate season next Friday night when it plays Stevens Point Normal school at Alexander gymnasium. The Blue and White team has been working out for several days during the vacation and is in good shape for the first tilt.

Stevens Point got off to an early start and is said to be one of the strongest teams in the normal school conference.

Efforts are being made to play subsequent games in the army in order to provide a better playing floor and to accommodate more spectators. Alexander gymnasium is not conveniently located and the floor is so small players find it difficult to carry on team work.

Coach McChesney is well satisfied with his squad thus far and is confident of annexing another champion ship.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM TO PLAY SHEBOYGAN HERE

A basketball game between the high school team and the Sheboygan quint has been scheduled for A. K. Vincent for next Saturday at Alexander gymnasium. The game will be the first of the season. Practice is being held every night at Lawrence gym.

A meeting of all basketball men will be held Monday afternoon at the high school. All the work which has been covered so far will be gone over.

FOR BURNING ECZEMA

Apply Zemo the Clean, Antiseptic Liquid—Easy to Use—Does Not Stain

Greasy ointments and lotions should not be applied if good clear skin is wanted. From any druggist for 35c, or $1.00 for a large size, get a bottle of Zemo. When applied as directed it effectively removes eczema, quickly stops itching, and heals skin troubles, also sores, burns, wounds and chafing. It penetrates, cleanses and soothes. Zemo is a clean, dependable and inexpensive antiseptic liquid. Try it, as we believe nothing you have ever used is as effective and satisfying.

BOOM FARRELL FOR NEW JOB IN BASEBALL WORLD

Who'll get the job of keeping books for Judge Landis?

The secretaryship of the new one-man baseball commission is an important one to fill.

He must be a fellow who knows baseball from the inside and not the headlines; for much of his work will be of an advisory nature.

John H. Farrell, secretary and treasurer of the National Association of the Professional Baseball Leagues, is being looked for the job.

Farrell is a man of whom little need be said in the baseball world. He probably knows more about the facts concerning leagues and players than any other man.

Last season he kept books on 22 leagues embracing 156 cities and towns in the United States and Canada. Four thousand six hundred and ninety-one players were employed by the National Association during the season.

Farrell announced at the annual meeting in Kansas City in November that applications for membership had been received from 11 new leagues.

His work has kept him close to the ball club pulse and the exciting conditions of the game at all times.

If Farrell gets the secretaryship under Landis he'll be qualified to fill it from every angle.

Mr. Specter is spending several days at Chicago on business.

CHICAGO

FIRST MORTGAGE SINKING FUND 8% GOLD BONDS

Dated December 15, 1920 Total authorized issue, $700,000. Due January 15, 1935

Interest payable January 15 and July 15 at Illinois Trust & Savings Bank, Chicago, or Second Ward Savings Bank, Milwaukee, free of all taxes the Company can lawfully pay. In coupon form in interchangeable denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100, registrable as to principal.

Redeemable on any interest date at the option of the Company on 20 days' prior notice at 110 and accrued interest, or on or before January 15, 1922, redemption price thereafter being reduced 1% per annum until it is 101, which rate prevails from July 15, 1920, to July 15, 1921.

The mortgage requires a minimum annual sinking fund of an amount sufficient to retire $50,000 of bonds each year from January 15, 1922, to January 15, 1934, by purchase if available below call price, or by call at the above prices which will retire all but the final $50,000 before maturity.

ILLINOIS TRUST & SAVINGS BANK, CHICAGO, TRUSTEE.

Mr. H. W. Thorp, who will be President of the Goodrich Transit Company, has summarized from a letter to us the following salient facts concerning the issue:

SECURITY

The $700,000 First Mortgage Sinking Fund Gold Bond issue will be secured by a closed first mortgage constituting a Preferred Maritime Lien under the Merchant Marine Laws of the United States on the present fleet of the Goodrich Transit Company, consisting of the vessels Alabama, Carolina, Christopher Columbus, Indiana, Arizona and Florida, all engaged in passenger and freight transportation on Lake Michigan.

BUSINESS

The Goodrich Line has been maintained as a continuous solvent enterprise throughout a period of over 64 years. It is the oldest and largest line on Lake Michigan and serves such important ports as Chicago, Ill., Milwaukee, Racine, Manitowish and Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin, Grand Haven, and White Lake, Michigan, as well as many other Lake Michigan and Green Bay ports, and has numerous important traffic arrangements with railroads.

VALUATION

The fleet has been appraised jointly by Ellis Gunell, president of the Manitowish Shipbuilding Company, and Fred G. Crosby, President of the Crosby Transportation Company of Milwaukee, at $2,236,000, or more than three times the amount of the bond issue. The appraisers report the vessels maintained in excellent condition.

EARNINGS

The net earnings of the Company, as determined by the audit of Messrs. Arthur Andersen & Company, for the years ended October 31, 1919 and 1920 (before federal taxes), available for interest were $252,364.03 and $225,034.29, respectively, or an average of $238,644.66, WHICH IS IN EXCESS OF FOUR TIMES THE MAXIMUM INTEREST CHARGES on this sinking fund issue. The earnings after federal taxes, and after allowance for full interest on this issue for the same period averaged OVER THREE TIMES THE SINKING FUND REQUIREMENTS of this issue. Those earnings have accrued after liberal maintenance, renewal and depreciation charges. RECENT LARGE RATE INCREASES, IN LINE WITH THE GENERAL RAILROAD RATE ADVANCES, TOGETHER WITH DECREASING COSTS OF COAL, FOODSTUFFS AND OTHER SUPPLIES, AND LABOR, INDICATE SUBSTANTIAL INCREASES IN BOTH GROSS AND NET EARNINGS.

EQUITY

The Company has no other funded debt, excepting purchase money mortgages of $85,000 on the Camp Roosevelt property at Lake Harbor, Muskegon, Michigan, and $4,500 on dock property at Sturgeon Bay, Wis. Its balance sheet as of October 31, 1920, after giving effect to the present financing shows $311,983.44 current assets of which $119,292.10 is cash and cash resources), as against $143,897.76 current liabilities. Its capital stock is $400,000 and surplus $369,264.55.

INSURANCE

Full insurance against all marine risks are carried by the Company on its vessels, their cargoes and their earnings, as required by the mortgage securing this issue. Fire and hull insurance aggregate about twice the bond issue, the policies being payable to the trustee for the benefit of the bondholders.

OWNERSHIP AND MANAGEMENT

The Goodrich Line was established by the late Albert E. Goodrich in 1853. In 1888 his son, Albert W. Goodrich, succeeded to the management of the enterprise and the present financing is incidental to the purchase of the fleet and business by Mr. Thorp and his associates from Albert W. Goodrich. Mr. Thorp, who now becomes president, has been with the Company since 1883 and for 21 years has been General Manager. Since 1912 he has also been Vice-President. His associates in this purchase are principally either men heretofore identified with the Company or with the Manitowish Shipbuilding Company, and are all experienced in the Great Lakes marine business.

All legal matters incidental to the preparation of the mortgage and the proceedings requisite for the issuance of these bonds as a valid and binding obligation of the Company have been under the direction of Messrs. Winston, Strawn & Shaw, Chicago, as counsel for the Company, and are subject to approval by Messrs. Kelley & Cottrell, Admiralty Lawyers of Cleveland, Ohio, as counsel for the bankers.

The above bonds are offered when, if and as issued and received by us, and approved by the requisite utility commissions.

MATCH GIBBONS AND GREB FOR NEW YORK

By United Press Leased Wire

New York—Harry Greb, Pittsburgh, and Tommy Gibbons, St. Paul, have been signed by Tex Rickard to fight fifteen rounds to a decision in Madison Square Garden, Jan. 23.

Billy Atkes and Charley Weinert will be matched on the same bill and the winners will meet to select an opponent for Bill Brennan.

Rickard has wired Johnny Kilbane an offer to defend his title against Andy Chaney, leading featherweight contender, Rickard said today.

Eddie Meade, Chaney's manager, says he will not ask a purse but will fight for training expenses to get a chance at the title.

Twelve teams will be entered and these stars already signed:

Appleton Gives Tame Welcome To Infant Year

Old Father Time, accustomed to receiving a rousing welcome on the occasion of reaching a milestone in his existence, was probably disappointed at the reception accorded him in Appleton Friday night and Saturday morning. Appleton's New Year's Eve "blowout" was the quietest—and the driest—in the history of the city, according to men who have been watching the old year out and the new year in since they were nickerbockers.

But a later line should not blame the quiet reception on the people of the city. These same men decried the hundreds of men and women, too—who would have been only too glad to give the old year a good old fashioned party, the whereof had been available, but it is pretty hard to get excited over a glass of grape juice and a bottle of gingerale does not arouse much enthusiasm they say. Blame for the tame welcome should be placed at the door of a certain Mr. Kramer of Washington, D. C., who is in charge of a young army of prohibition enforcement officers. This army has so rattled the fear of Uncle Sam into the hearts of Appletonians that tonight little of the liquor that cheers was seen and consumed in the city.

Not all of the New Year parties were "dry," however. Quite a number who had the forethought to stock up against the long drought held little private parties at which Old Time was wished Godspeed to the twinkling of glasses and sizz of seltzer.

MEETING URGES MORE PIG CLUBS

Superintendent of County Schools is Pushing New Club Movement.

A. G. Meating, county superintendent of schools, is endeavoring to interest a few progressive boys and girls around Seymour, Hortonville and Kaukauna in carrying out pig club project No. 2, as outlined for Wisconsin boys and girls by the state club leader and the United States Department of Agriculture. The club in each of these places will be organized separately and each will have its own officers.

Project No. 2, a mother and litter club, is a great money maker for club members. The plan will be to furnish a pure bred Duroc Jersey sow. Club members will have charge of her and of the young pigs until they are ready for the market.

A club exhibit will be planned and

ISSUE NEW CARD FOR U. S. SAVINGS

Government Simplifies Method of Opening Postal Savings Accounts.

Making the 1921 anniversary of the United States' postal savings system, the government has issued a new postal savings card which will displace the one now in use. It is expected to increase the number of savers, because it simplifies the method steps toward opening an account.

The old card could be secured by paying 10 cents. The saver would affix nine 10-cent stamps and the card would be returned as a dollar deposit. The new card is furnished free of cost and has place for 10 stamps instead of nine. It can be filled with one dollar's worth of stamps and deposited for that amount or it can be redeemed in cash. The feature of the new card is the transfer of the 24 foreign languages of the statement that the fact of the United States is solemnly pledged to the payment of the deposits made by the system.

Half Million Depositors. Saver's card regular deposits at the Appleton post office, but their number is small. As predicted when the movement was started January 1, 1921, foreign born citizens have been its principal patrons. Cities having a heavy foreign population report large deposits. Postmaster General Burleson announces the amount on deposit today is more than $162,000,000 and deposits have long since passed the one-half million mark.

Knowing that people of many foreign countries look to the government to safeguard their deposits, the United States gave each newcomer at the port of entry a leaflet in his own language outlining the postal savings method and urging the desirability of continuing the practice of thrift customary in the country he just left.

The original act of congress restricted the total savings account to $500 and not more than $100 of this amount could be deposited in one month. Later the monthly limitation was entirely removed and the maximum increased first to $1,000 and then to the present amount, $5,000. Postmaster General Burleson, in the annual report just submitted to congress, recommends increasing the rate of interest to be paid depositors. Favorable action is expected in the near future.

No effort will be spared by the entertainment committee, of which C. C. Baker is chairman, to give the Legion members an enjoyable evening. Some novel amusement "stunts" will be sprung after the ceremonies are over and a lunch will be served.

BAND HOLDS FREE CONCERT TONIGHT

Ninth Regiment Band Presents Attractive Program to Public at Chapel.

Remember the free public concert at 8:20 o'clock on Monday evening at Lawrence Memorial chapel, given by the Ninth Regiment band.

Three additional musicians have been secured by Prof. Percy Fullinwider, director, to render the program. This will make 40 players in all, presenting a well balanced group.

Considerable interest in the indoor concert idea has been shown by Appleton people and the indications are the city fathers may expect the chapel to be packed to the doors. With a seating capacity of 2,000, there seems little doubt all who want to attend will be accommodated.

The band has been rehearsing continually for its opening appearance under the new director. Tenor solos by Prof. Carl Waterman will be featured. There is to be no charge for admission and no collection.

The STAGE

Hearts of Erin
"Hearts of Erin" is the title of the latest production of George M. Gaithe which will shortly be presented here at Appleton theatre, Jan. 5, with Walter Scanlan, the noted tenor, and a fine acting company. Replete with droll Irish humor, keen wit, and romantic love making, to say nothing of a number of charming songs sung as only Scanlan can sing them, there can be no doubt of the reception with which "Hearts of Erin" will meet when it is given here. The stage settings are promised to be unusually handsome.

Katzenjammer Kids
Theatregoers who fail to find anything new or entertaining in the theatre these days will have to admit they are wrong. George M. Gaithe, the New York producer, is presenting a new cartoon musical comedy called "Katzenjammer Kids", made from the comic cartoons of the colored supplement and brought to the stage by John P. Mulgrew. He has done his work well, for the transition from the colored page to the stage has only served to emphasize the fun of the kids, Hans and Fritz, Ma Katzenjammer, Der Captain and the other characters in this amusing series. It's a play for kids—from 6 to 60—and whether you are a blasé, tired business man, or a busy housewife, you can't afford to miss the opportunity of seeing this really funny musical play when it comes to the Appleton Theatre, Thursday, Jan. 6.

It's for the kiddies too, so bring them along by all means. But it's fun for the sort that can be appreciated to the fullest extent by the grown-ups as well. And besides, it contains two score of jingly songs, composed by Donald H. Bestor. And the chorus well, we'll let you judge for yourself! They're peaches, and no mistake.

A CLEAR COMPLEXION

Ruddy Cheeks—Sparkling Eyes—Most Women Can Have

Says Dr. Edwards, a Well-Known Ohio Physician

Dr. F.M. Edwards for 17 years treated scores of women for liver and bowel ailments. During these years he gave to his patients a prescription made of a few well-known vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. You will know them by their olive color.

These tablets are wonder-workers on the liver and bowels, which cause a normal action, carrying off the waste and poisonous matter in one's system. If you have a pale face, callow look, dull eyes, pimples, coated tongue, headaches, a listless, no-good feeling, all out of sorts, inactive bowels, you take one of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly for a time and note the pleasing results. Thousands of women and men take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—the successful substitute for calomel—now and then just to keep them fit.
